A message from Albert Benguigui American Supply's CEO & President

STAY TOGETHER

American Supply, since our foundation in 1948, has faced many local and global changes. We have always strived to help and support our customers and partners through these changes. Right now, with the unprecedented COVID-19 pandemic, we are living through a time that will mark history. We want to assert our commitment to

WE ARE HERE

With our unique physical material library in Paris that holds more than 10,000 individual references, our in-house material expertise, partner factories and transformation capabilities: we are able to help you with your projects and demands, big or small.

CONSULTATIONS

American Supply prides itself on its material knowledge and expertise. Our sector works principally on future projection and this current situation is temporary. We are dedicated to looking towards the future and providing for all your future needs. Our material experts remain available for any consultations online by email or conference

SAMPLES & ORDERS

Shipping of material samples remains unaffected, both within Europe and overseas, though due to the current situation deliveries might be slightly delayed. We want to assure you that all material orders are still being processed and dispatched and that we are available for any material recommendations or technical advice.

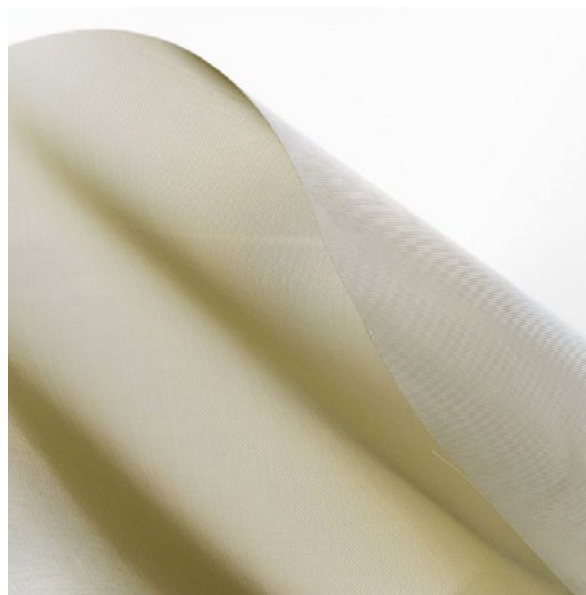

With our technical expertise, global logistics and network of partner factories we remain devoted to actioning and carrying out your material supply and creative production demands, no matter how big or small, and are dedicated to ensuring future
